

Teachers loudly protest first-ever Jeff High layoffs

For the first time in the Jefferson Union High School District's history, the Board of Trustees voted Monday night to lay off 19 certificated employees by next fall as a consequence of drastic program reductions.

The board made the decision on Superintendent Floyd Gonella's recommendation. Gonella said the district staff anticipates a $1.5 million deficit in 1979-80.

A crowd of 100 persons, mostly teachers, grumbled aloud at times during the meeting and became so incensed when one trustee couldn't be heard that Board Chairman James Roman threatened to clear the room.

Roman nearly refused to let four union representatives speak, noting that they hadn't turned in the prerequisite blue cards at the proper time. When the four did speak, they accused the board of failing to give the public sufficient notice of the cuts, dealing in "fantasy" budgets and violating the teachers' contract with the district.

In accordance with state law, the district must notify the 19 certificated employees by March 15 that they won't have jobs next fall.

Gonella said the employees scheduled for termination are those with the least seniority.

The district already has notified all of its temporary teachers that they won't have jobs next fall.

However, Gonella added that the district may reinstate some of the employees if it receives more state funding than it anticipates at the moment.

The board voted 4-0 (Trustee Ruth Boudinot was absent) to lay off employees by next fall as follows:

- Nurses — Five positions, at a saving of $102,000. After contracting out vision and hearing services at a cost of $10,000, the net cost saved would be $92,000.

- Work Experience — Three jobs at a saving of $93,675, eliminating all persons currently supervising students in the work experience program. Students no longer would receive academic credit for work experience.

- Attendance — 4.2 positions at a cost saving of $102,448. Teachers and administrators would assume a greater role in maintaining proper attendance.

- Department Heads — 3.2 jobs at a saving of $71,555. The district's other department heads would absorb additional responsibilities.

- Activity Director — One job, saving $29,235. This will eliminate supervision of after-school clubs, except by volunteers.

- Counselors — On a split vote, the board voted to cut out 2.6 positions at a saving of $56,900. Other counselors, now saddled with counseling 400 students, will have to take on more students.

- Administrators — Two administrators' jobs, saving $50,000.

- Adult Ed — Charging students full tuition fees for all courses other than state-mandated basic education courses will save the district $50,000.

- Co-curricular — Ending all after-school classes and club activities will result in a $111,600 savings.

- ROP and Driver Ed — The board also voted to eliminate its Regional Occupational Program and driver training education unless those programs are funded fully by outside sources.

At Gonella's request, the board asked its staff to reduce busing to the minimum amount necessary and to report back to the board at the second meeting in April.

In addition, the board directed the district to study the following other proposed reductions which need not be made prior to March 15 and to report back by the second meeting in April.

- Five-Period Day — By reducing the present six-period day to five periods, the district figures it could save $130,000.

- Athletics — By eliminating all athletic programs, the district could save $278,917.

- Classified Staff — Gonella said the district might save $100,000 by trimming its classified staff. Classified employees may be fired with 30 days notice.

On Trustee John Sloane's questioning, Gonella said he did not think it wise to consider closing a school or moving the district offices to a school campus during 1979-80. He said the district anticipates a large reduction in students the following year, which would make both actions desirable then.

The four audacious members who spoke before the board voted on the reductions were extremely critical of the recommended cuts.

Bill Curran said the $1.5 million budget crisis announced by Gonella has "an air of fantasy" in view of the American Federation of Teach-

NEW DALY CITY MAYOR

Victor Kyriakis, 43, says he is in no hurry to make a lot of changes in the operation of Daly City city government.

New mayor hopes for shorter city council meetings during term

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Daly City's new mayor, Victor Kyriakis, isn't in a hurry to make changes.

The 43-year-old native of San Francisco, elected Monday night to the office, said the only thing he'd like to do right away is shorten the length of City Council meetings.

Kyriakis said he's considering the possibility of putting some routine agenda topics on a consent calendar so the council would approve them all at once.

But, after one of his characteristic thoughtful pauses, he added that he might wish to make other changes later.

It was the housing market that brought Kyriakis and his wife, Stella, to Daly City 17 years ago. They bought a home in Daly City, he said, because "Daly City offered a better house for the money."

Both his parents and his wife's parents came to the United States from Greece.

He and Stella have two children: Tina, age 6, and Steve, age 1-1/2. Husband and wife share the cooking and Kyriakis also takes pride in his extensive bonsai and orchid collections.

Becoming a lawyer was an early ambition for him. After he earned a degree in political science from Stanford University, he attended Hastings College of Law and was admitted to the California Bar in 1964.

Kyriakis has been practicing law ever since. He is a partner in the firm of Kyriakis and Guralnick in Daly City.

The bespectacled, round-faced man originally got involved in politics in 1968, when he served as Louis J. Papan's campaign manager in Papan's first try for a Daly City City Council seat. Kyriakis also served as Papan's campaign manager when Papan won a seat on the council in 1970.

After Papan's election, Kyriakis served on the Daly City Planning Commission from 1971-72.

He was appointed to fill Papan's unexpired term on the council in 1972, when Papan was elected to the State Assembly. Kyriakis again was Papan's campaign manager in that race.

Kyriakis was elected for the first time to the Daly City council in 1974 and he was re-elected in March 1978. He was mayor once before, in 1975-76.

Kyriakis said he believes public officials are servants of the people and that he looks upon himself as a problem solver.

One of his primary concerns has been in improving transportation for his constituents. Although he once served on a citizens committee working for the extension of Bay Area Rapid Transit District service to the airport, Kyriakis said he now opposes any extension of the system.

After he became a councilman, Kyriakis worked diligently on the campaign to form unified bus service under the San Mateo County Transit District. He said he doubts SamTrans would exist if it weren't for the Daly City residents who supported the system.

Once the transit system was formed, Kyriakis helped lay out bus routes in Daly City. He said the only complaints on service he hears are from residents of the Southern Hills area, which isn't served by SamTrans.

Kyriakis also has been a sup-

Mayor Pro Tem Anthony Giammona

Giammona takes the No. 2 council spot

Victor Kyriakis was elected mayor of Daly City Monday night at the City Council's most festive meeting of the year.

A dozen colorful bouquets and rented ornamental trees sprinkled around the council chambers and white orchid corsages worn by the councilmen's wives set the ceremonial mood as Mayor William Schumacher entertained nominations for the office of mayor.

There were no surprises in the actions that followed.

Councilman Anthony Giammona nominated Mayor Pro Tem Victor Kyriakis as mayor. The motion was seconded by Councilman James Tucker and passed 5-0.

Then Councilman Albert Teglia nominated Giammona for the office of mayor pro tem. Teglia's motion, seconded by Kyriakis, also passed on a 5-0 vote.

Following tradition, the council elected outgoing mayor Schumacher as its second representative on the North San Mateo County Sanitation District board of directors, which serves Daly City, Colma and unincorporated Colma. As mayor, Kyriakis automatically sits on the board.

After shaking hands with the other council members, Kyriakis switched seats with Schumacher and gave a short speech commending the outgoing mayor.

Kyriakis recalled that he had enjoyed his previous term as mayor in 1975-76 "a great deal."

When he introduced his wife, Stella, his two children, Tina and Steve, and his mother-in-law, Koula Pangos, 1-1/2-year-old Steve applauded along with the audience.

Kyriakis also pointed out local celebrities in the audience, including Superior Court Judge John Bible and county Supervisor William Royer, then he presented Schumacher with a gavel mounted on a plaque.

Summing up his year as mayor, Schumacher said, "I thought that, with the cooperation I received from this council, Daly City went through a bad crisis due to Proposition 13 and we did quite well."

In spite of the budget crunch, he noted the city added personnel to the police department and a $100,000 piece of equipment to the fire department and beefed up services for senior citizens while retaining most of the city's recreation programs.

Schumacher and Kyriakis switched chairs again for the election of officers to the Daly City Redevelopment Agency, which oversees revitalization in the city's commercial areas along Junipera Serra Boulevard and Mission Street.

As anticipated, the council elected the new mayor and mayor pro tem to the respective offices of chairman and chairman pro tem of the agency.

Playing musical chairs yet again, Kyriakis took the center seat and said, "Enough of the speeches. There's a beautiful reception waiting outside. Do I hear a motion for adjournment?"

But he soon realized he had neglected to introduce the other councilmen's wives in the audience and hastily introduced Ruth Giammona, Verna Teglia and Buffy Tucker. He also pointed out Millbrae Councilwoman Mary Griffin, calling her "Mary Griffith."

As the audience headed for white clothed tables laden with goodies, Kyriakis said, "I hope no one talks shop tonight."

His 6-year-old daughter Tina made a beeline for the big leather chair on the dais where her father had been sitting. Kyriakis watched with amusement as she rocked back and forth in it, living for a moment in her father's new role.

ers' close inspection of the district's budget last fall.

Curran is a member of AFT Local 1481, the bargaining agent for teachers in the district.

He accused the board of failing to notify the public adequately of a meeting last Thursday at which Gonella first unveiled the proposed cuts. "There were only two people in the audience that night," he said.

He asked the board why it had failed to involve the community or teachers in the job-cutting process.

Another AFT member, Louis Silberman, said AFT has been meeting with district representatives twice every month for the past seven months to prevent surprises like the cutbacks.

"In the entire seven months, although we asked the question again and again, the superintendent said there would be no program reductions," Silberman remarked.

He said the administration was either incompetent or was purposefully trying to deceive teachers, students and parents — or both. "Frankly some of the teachers think it's both," he commented.

Silberman added he thinks "The time will come when the superintendent realizes he is not the crown prince of the district" but is, instead, a person who signs a legally binding contract.

In her appeal, AFT Local 1481 President Marcy Dunne Ballard said the district's administrators should be in Sacramento, where she has spent many days trying to bring more state dollars back to the district.

She said nobody knows yet what kind of money districts will have next fall. "I warn you of a danger. I believe the superintendent of this district is hoodwinking the public and I know he's hoodwinking the employees."

Noting that the district's "left hand doesn't know what the right hand is doing," she accused the superintendent of trying to get teachers to suggest program cuts by implying he was the "victim of a deranged school board."

Mrs. Ballard said it is illegal, according to the teachers' contract, to make any cuts in staff except when the district demonstrates to teachers that cuts are necessitated by declining enrollment.

She added that Gonella had just negotiated himself a salary increase to more than $42,000 per year.

Bob Garay, president of the California School Employees Association, which represents the district's classified employees, said he was upset particularly about the nursing cuts because a single lawsuit brought against the district because of improper health care could cost more than all the money saved.

The audience began shouting "Can't hear!" when Trustee Jane Powell began speaking without a microphone. When she continued to speak without the microphone, the audience became more insistent that she use one.

Board Chairman James Roman threatened to clear the room. Someone in the audience said, "That's illegal."

Roman replied, "Would you like to try me?"

Mrs. Powell finally used a microphone.

In four swift actions, the board voted in the cuts while members of the audience muttered in disgust.

Following the meeting, Gonella denied that he has received a pay raise and said that the staff reductions do not violate the district's contract with its teachers.

He also said that the district gave the public and unions proper notice of the meetings. "It's not my fault if they didn't know about them," he remarked.

Rally ends successful Spirit Week

By STEVE KAUFMAN

Westmoor is catching its breath after a highly successful Spirit Week, climaxed by one of the most interesting rallies of the school year.

I would like to congratulate the Senior Class of 1979, which won the week for the fourth year in a row, a feat never accomplished in the 22 years of Westmoor's history. It was a close race, however, and I would like to congratulate the classes for all of their hard work and efforts.

Westmoor's PTA once again has been at work helping out the school. The PTA donated money to the Westmoor chapter of the California Scholarship Federation for the Life Member pins and Graduation cords. These honors are won by students who achieve a certain membership status throughout their four years in Westmoor. On behalf of the club, thanks!

Also, the organization sent out a newsletter to parents of Westmoor students informing them of upcoming ing and recent events. Appropriately titled "Westmoor's Ramblings," this newsletter is the first of its kind this year.

I thought they were stealing my column's name, but was informed by Mr. Kollmann, the school principal, that the newsletter had been sent out in previous years under the same name, and it was I who was doing the stealing! In any case, the newsletter was very informa-

50s rally set at Jefferson

Come shake, rattle and role at Jefferson High School's 50s rally March 16. The 50s rally is one day out of the year when Jeff students reminisce and dress up in the 50s outfits.

The Pep Staff will do routines to 1950 tunes and the band "Toe's on the Nose" will be performing and playing the good ol' 50s songs. Other attractions will be a singer representing the International Club.

The juniors also will be sponsoring the St. Patrick's Day dance March 16. The dance will feature disc jockey Alvin John Waples of KDIA and there will be a dance contest. Tickets are $3 at the door.

The freshman class of 1982 had a money-raising candy sale, which ended March 9. The freshmen also are having a flower-gram sale this week.

The Indian baseball team has played three games in pre-season, defeating Aragon but losing to Lincoln and then to Mills by a score of 4-2.

On Wednesday, Jeff's

track team defeated both McAteer and Oceana in a joint pre-season meet at McAteer. Arthur Diaz was the highlight of the varsity, running anchor on the winning 440 relay and placing second in the 100 yard dash. Vanessa Woods took first in the 100 and also ran anchor on the winning 440 relay team.

Pepsi Cola and radio station KFRC presented an educational and entertaining multi-media assembly which explored ways of coping with today's world last Thursday in Jeff's Little Theatre during second and third period.

The production, which included a film, music and a live performer, described the lively history of animation and explored the lessons that this art form had to offer in teaching students how to cope with today's problems.

From its beginnings in turn-of-the-century France to the special effects of Hollywood-animation has always focused on the universal subject of survival. Animation examples from 10 foreign countries were included in the presentation, as well as familiar American cartoon faces.

A definition of friendship

"Now the highest point in the perfection of society is this of friendship."
—Montaigne.

For Montaigne in friendship, two people "mingle and unite one with the other in a blend so perfect that the seam which has joined them together is effaced and can never be found again." For Montaigne friendship is a more perfect relationship than those imposed by family unions (parent and child, brother and brother, etc.) because by choice, the friends have formed a union of strength and stability.

Samuel Chandler

of your own sex. If so, in what respect is it different? Does it produce sexual tensions that complicate the friendship? Is it subject to limitations by one's spouse or lover? Is it possible for men and women to share one heart, one thought, and yet remain unattached in a romantic way?

Question 7 asks the reader to state the influence of such things as education and professional background on friendship. It also asks one to rate many facets of personality on friendship. Included are such qualities as sense of humor, frankness, ability as a conversationalist, and physical attractiveness.

Question 27 seeks to determine what things lead to a cooling off of close friendship, while question 18 is concerned with what things friends must do together to maintain their union.

such studies are successful, they will add a great deal of information to mankind's knowledge of himself.

Unlike Montaigne, who defined friendship from analyzing himself and his associates, today's researchers must study many people and analyze their responses with the tools of science.

Psychology Today may be found in many of the public libraries. Surely we hope many people will copy the questionnaire and send it to the editors.

MTC asks nominees

The Metropolitan Transportation Commission is accepting nominations for its 1979 Transportation Awards Program. The program gives formal recognition to individuals, community groups, business firms and public agencies for significant achievement in support of public transportation in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Self nominations are encouraged. All efforts to promote or improve public transportation anywhere in the nine Bay Area counties will be considered. Programs such as carpooling, special van services from apartment complexes or business firms, or citizen groups which have promoted transit through political action, are examples of activities which are eligible for the MTC awards.

given to an individual actually engaged in the delivery of public transportation. Deadline for filing nominations with MTC is April 1. Nomination forms are available by writing MTC's Public Affairs Office, Hotel Claremont, Berkeley 94705, or by calling 848-3223.

In a close friendship, Montaigne found two souls pulled so unitedly together by an affection so ardent it opens the hearts of the friends to each other. Such friendship, he wrote, "possesses the souls and rules them with absolute sovereignty." In friendship "a man deals from the very bottom of his heart, without any manner of reservation" — and all that springs from friendship is "perfectly clean and true."

Although Montaigne wrote his essay 400 years ago, (Michel de Montaigne Selected Essays, Modern Library, $2.45), 20th century psychologists have not been able to find an adequate definition for friendship. With this in mind, the editors of "Psychology Today" ask Mary Brown Parlee to develop a questionnaire that could provide data for a study.

OUR NEIGHBORS ARE REALLY SERIOUS ABOUT SAVING ENERGY...

It makes good sense to save energy. It helps the nation and saves money, too. But you don't have to be uncomfortable to accomplish your goal.

It will probably just take a few minor repairs to correct a problem. A clean and properly-tuned furnace will mean more comfort for you and your family. It will lower heating bills at the same time.

A leaky faucet or connection can waste two gallons of precious water per day. And an improperly regulated water heater wastes energy and dollars every hour it is out of adjustment.

The experienced journeymen craftsmen who work for our union contractors install, repair and service plumbing and heating appliances. Or if it's a major remodeling or improvement job, which will enhance the value of your home—such as modernizing a kitchen or bathroom—then our members are qualified to help you with ideas, estimates and service.

Always the price will be fair (probably less than you think) and all work is guaranteed. Look for our name listed daily in the newspaper classified sections under "plumbing." In the telephone yellow pages, our listing is on page 766 in the San Mateo County Directory; and page 492 in the Palo Alto book. Or just keep a copy of this advertisement handy.

What you should Lucky Meat

Lucky "Bonded" Meats guaranteed to be tender, flavorful ...

When you make your selection from Lucky's meat cases with their tremendous variety of steaks, roasts, chops, ground meats, pork, veal, ham, fish and poultry, you must be satisfied! That's why Lucky guarantees the flavor and tenderness of every meat item you purchase.

Meat, of course, is the largest single item in the average food budget, and shoppers deserve the flavor and tenderness of Lucky "Bonded" meats, USDA Grade A frying chicken and USDA Choice lamb. The way meat is trimmed of excess fat and bone is as important as the price per pound, and Lucky prides itself on carefully trimming all meat prior to weighing and wrapping.

Lucky offers "P.M.S." which means "personalized meat service". If shoppers are looking for a special cut of meat, or just can't find what they want, just ask one of Lucky's meat experts. He'll gladly prepare any cut of meat to your specifications at no extra charge.

For even greater savings on meats, Lucky also offers Magna Pak. As the name implies, Magna Pak means larger packages of meat. It costs less to sell in large quantities, so Lucky passes savings on to customers by taking an extra 5¢ per pound off the already low everyday discount meat price! Magna Pak packages are identified with a special red tag. It's perfect for larger families and just right for the freezer, too! Not all meat items are available in Magna Pak, but if you can find an item that fits your mealtime planning, it's a good savings.

Lucky also removes the "tail" from T-Bone and Porterhouse steaks simply because there's no sense in paying for meat that one can't eat.

Einstein birthday observances in many forms

By ARVILLE FINACOM
The year is 1879; the place is Ulm, in southern Germany; the date is Friday, March 14. Educated in Ulm, then Munich, a theorizer in Switzerland, then Princeton, N.J., the boy born in Ulm 100 years ago this date, Albert Einstein, said, in later explanation of his genius, "I have no special gift. I am only passionately curious."

Although Einstein is known chiefly for his Nobel award paper proposing "The Quantum Law of the Emission and Absorption of Light," as well as his "special" and "general" theories of relativity, he was far more than an erudite physicist. In the celebrations this year throughout the world commemorating the 100th anniversary of his birth, Einstein will be acclaimed pacifist, internationalist, musician and writer and spinoffs from his scientific work will be noted.

It has been said that relativity is a concept few understand, but all experience. Philosophers, in fact, have gone as far as to say we exist only in relation to one another. I become, as it were, an expression of the reality accepted by my fellow man.

But this subjective reality is not the kind with which Einstein dealt. Rather, he formulated a theory by which to link together objective relativity, that which we can observe and measure, with its causes. According to Einstein, the first to consider time a dimension, space and time do not exist except in relation to the physically measurable objects within them. His theoretical explanation for the universe, making it dependent on a "space/time" or "relativity" factory, revolutionized the science of physics which deals with the study of the laws, principles and applications of energy and matter and made possible, among other things, television, lasers, solar cells and the successful space flights which, have orbited the earth, approached the other planets and landed men on the moon.

Einstein's theory also made possible atom splitting, a controlled fission resulting in an enormous release of energy that occurs in an atomic bomb or in a nuclear reactor. Sufficiently accelerated, the theory says, "to twice the speed of light," matter becomes pure energy. And it was this practical application of his theory that gave him the most sorrow. As a scientist, Einstein understood the enormous potential for good or evil in the work proceeding in the late 1930s leading toward atom smashing. He found it imperative to encourage his adopted homeland to develop the atomic bomb before his birthland, then under the control of the Nazi regime he could not tolerate politically, did so.

The experience also led Einstein to renewed efforts as a pacifist and an internationalist. He said, "As long as there are sovereign nations possessing great power, war is inevitable." And later, "The unleashed power of the atom has changed everything, save our modes of thinking, and thus we drift toward unparalleled catastrophe."

According to Einstein, since supranationalism was all that could save earth from uncontrolled atomic power capable of destroying two-thirds of its inhabitants, the question to ask becomes, "How can we contribute to make the life of man on this diminishing earth more secure and more tolerable?"

As a servant among his fellow Jews and a genius in the scientific world, Einstein's comments on issues as diverse as human rights, academic freedom and education for independent thought were not only accepted but circulated widely during his lifetime. The resultant acclamation made him uncomfortable. The public fascination with genius and its establishment of a personality cult around him was "a pain in the neck" to the man who considered himself, in reality, no "greater" than any other. He is reported to have once told a friend, "They make of me too much fuss."

Because he discouraged fanfare about the many honors and awards during his lifetime, this year's centennial observance gives many of his friends, admirers and colleagues a chance to express their emotions about the unassuming, rather eccentric man who was Albert Einstein. A 12-foot tall bronze statue of him as a casually dressed sockless figure — socks just "make holes," Einstein once said — will be unveiled this month on the front lawn of the National Academy of Sciences in Washington, D.C.

Ceremonies, conferences, books, plays, traveling and museum exhibits, academic workshops, TV and movie films as well as issuance of a commemorative stamp by the Postal Service follow four themes — personal remembrance, public outreach, update on research, and "eternal riddles." Einstein's secretary, Helen Dugas, his stepdaughter Margot, and his long-time associate, Princeton Professor Emeritus Dr. Valentine Bargmann, as well as others who knew him, will tape interviews detailing their memories of the man as separate from the myth.

Foremost in production of materials for the public is the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. which not only opens a year-long exhibit devoted to Einstein but also will conduct workshops for teachers on how to teach about Einstein and his theories in today's classrooms.

The state of Israel, which in 1954 offered Einstein its presidency, celebrates with a 10-day conference exploring the scientist's impact on the fields of psychology, philosophy, linguistics, economics, literature, and science fiction.

In a further observance, actor William Landry portrays Einstein in a one-man theatrical production sponsored by the Oak Ridge Associated Universities, which will tour the United States for seven months. Three public TV shows are scheduled for this year, produced by WGBH in Boston and KCET in Los Angeles. Locally, contact channels 9, 32, 54 or 60 for details of time and date.

3 Inspections insure Produce Freshness before you buy ...

Lucky Produce Buyers are charged to select only the finest available fruits and vegetables to assure Lucky customers the quality to which they are accustomed.

Consistent with Lucky's low everyday discount price policy, all fruits and vegetables are offered at low discount prices ... but Lucky never sacrifices quality for price.

A visit to Lucky's produce counters shows a wide variety of fruits and vegetables available to customers ... it's almost like having your very own garden brimming with the season's most delicious fresh fruits and vegetables. Modern transportation methods also insure a regular supply of produce, and many items that were once only available for a few weeks out of the year are now virtually staple items.

Produce is delivered almost daily to Lucky's Distribution Center from West Coast growing areas. At the Distribution Center there is an inspection to insure uniform high quality of product suitable for Lucky's rigid standards. Extra handling is evident immediately upon arrival at various Lucky Stores, for all fresh produce is washed, trimmed and sorted into display counters. Fruits are never dumped into bins, but carefully hand-stacked to avoid bruising. Fresh greens and other perishable vegetables are "misted" several times a day to retain the freshness necessary for color and flavor.

Throughout the country's major growing areas, Lucky maintains liaison with field representatives who select the quality of fruits and vegetables that Lucky demands.

Brass Elephant Has 20-Foot Salad Table

A trip to the Salad Table is included with all dinner entrees in the Brass Elephant, a new luncheon, dinner and disco room at the GROSVENOR AIRPORT INN, South San Francisco. The huge 20-foot Salad Table, which offers about 25 different tempting choices, can even be "a meal in itself," which is why General Manager JIM RAINE has arranged the menu options ... "Nobody ever goes away hungry," said Chef Jim Castro when asked about the popular family-style dinners at YOLANDA'S, located in the Produce Terminal, South San Francisco. Dinner guests often can't eat as much as served. Open seven nights a week, including Saturday and Sunday ... Announcement from KATHY WIMSATT at JOHN & KATHY'S, South San Francisco: There's a new "rhythm duo" entertaining in the adjoining cocktail lounge Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday nights. Also, their annual St. Patrick's Day party is planned for March 16, with free hors d'oeuvres, Irish ballads, and Irish coffee, the house specialty, for only $1 ... So all you fans of Ol' Erin can go into training to be ready for March 17, here's advance notice of BEARDSLEY'S fifth annual St. Patrick's Day bash this Saturday. Complimentary Mulligan Stew and Irish soda bread for everyone. Bar opens at 1 p.m., food service from 4 p.m., and the party goes on and on with bagpiper, fiddler, BOBBIE STHAL at the piano, and plenty of Irish coffee and festivity.

L'Auberge Offers Country Inn Setting

Everything at L'AUBERGE, Redwood City, seems to be in keeping with the relaxed atmosphere of a French country inn, which is how Owner LOUIS FRUTSCH planned it when he opened this cozy oasis of haute cuisine 15 years ago. Dine at intimate tables with soft candlelight, sip a well-chosen wine from tall globular glasses ... Finishing touches and all that goes into opening a high-class restaurant such as LA BELLA PASTA, soon to open by the lagoon at Edgewater Place Shopping Center in Foster City, are being given special attention. One of the chief kibitzers waddling around everywhere is "Gus the Goose," a tame white goose with red wattles who comes up out of the lagoon and follows restaurant owner SALVATORE FAVA for handouts ... Many who relish good home-cooked food wend their way to TILLIE'S 'LIL FRANKFURT German restaurant in Moss Beach for her famous Sunday breakfast/brunch. Imagine, ham and cheese omelette, potatoes, muffins, coffee for only $2.50 ... Lunch at BAYHILL LOUNGE is not just popular among those who work in the nearby office complexes. Many from other areas use convenient Highway 280 to trek to Bayhill Shopping Center for house specialties, sandwiches and much more. Serving hours are extended from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. to accommodate everyone.

Warm Hospitality Extended by Gusts

The sea has many moods, and you never know if the surf will be whisper smooth or crashing like a kettledrum on the shoreline of Pacifica's Rockaway Beach. And that's only part of what makes dining at NICK'S, THE MOONRAKER, and CAPTAIN CHARLES restaurants so exciting. Guests sit in luxurious comfort and look out through panoramic windows at nature's thrilling tableau while enjoying palatable continental cuisine and seafood specialties ... ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in the heart of San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," is "the" place to go if you want to rub elbows with superstars of the entertainment world. Among the many living legends seen dining here are Jackie Gleason, Victor Borge and Carol Channing ... Ordinarily, you wouldn't think there could be much difference in bean sprouts. But JOHN CHIANG, chef-owner of GONG'S Chinese restaurant in South San Francisco, is just as fussy about getting the most tender and freshest bean sprouts as he is about everything else that goes into his Cantonese and Mandarin dishes ... How many of you thought that just because ROMANO'S Italian restaurant at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, is known all over the West Coast for its pastas and pizzas, they weren't serving anything else? Well, Owner ENRICO ROMANO says to tell you that steaks, seafood, roasts, casseroles, sandwiches (yes, even hamburgers), and much more are on the menu. The next time you dine here tell Enrico we told you how versatile he is.

Trip to Egypt Lehr's Cabaret Disco Prize

A beautiful gold King Tut stickpin is given to patrons of LEHR'S CABARET DISCO in San Francisco when they pay their admission charge on King Tut Dance Contest night (every Wednesday). The pin is a valuable piece of jewelry costing more than the admission price. Grand prize in the contest is a fabulous trip for two to Egypt ... So extensive is the range of seafood offerings on the menu at VINCE'S Seafood and Italian restaurant, there are more than a dozen different seafood casserole dishes alone from which to choose. All are served with vegetables or French fries. One of the most popular is Crab Legs and Prawns with Rice ... All entrees are cooked individually when ordered at LA PINATA, an authentic Mexican restaurant in downtown Burlingame. The menu offers an array of choices. Among the much chosen appetizers are Nachos, Quesadillas Guacamole with Chips, and Tacitos ... JIM SNIADOCKI, owner of SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S, has added another touch of class to his award-winning Redwood City restaurant. To blend with the Scotch plaid of the wallpaper, all wool, special made-to-order Stewart Tartan Scotch plaid tablecloths now dress up the cozy dining area ... Gourmet steak dishes at PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, are an unforgettable dining treat. Phil recommends the Steak Diane, cooked to order on Phil's incredible "Fasar" flameless cooking carts ... Vocalist DONNA MARIE entertains Tuesdays through Saturdays in the lounge of SERRAMONTE JOE'S, Daly City.

THE DIET CORNER

By ELISE GENDAR
The animals went in two by two, because Old Man Noah knew what he was doing.

Like most things in life, dieting is easier with company.

Don't take my word for it. Dr. Kelly Brownell wasn't kidding around when he research "Couples Training and Partner Cooperativeness" at Brown University.

Like most diets these days, Dr. Brownell's eating program concentrated on the behavioral aspect of weight loss. That's where the partnership came in. In fact, your partner may not have a need to lose weight. Learning new eating habits could mean never having to say, "I have to go on a diet," for the thinnest of the diet. Setting up good eating behavior is inoculation against gain.

So, what do you do to diet by two? Each of you keeps a daily log for what you observe of your own and your partner's eating.

You both follow set techniques at meals:

- Put forks down between bites.
- Neither has water with meals.
- Each enjoys a mid-meal pause to decide how much more to eat.
- Both give up eating while watching TV, reading, or listening to the radio.
- Food is served on the plate — no platters or bowls on table.

If there is a non-weight loss partner, the role is to be supportive and keep from nagging. Surprisingly, it was discovered that thin partners talked more about food than the overweight ones in couples. The sacrifice there was conversational rather than caloric.

It takes a sound, nutritionally-balanced diet to bring calories down to the level where weight comes off. This includes good diet cooking. I'll start you and your partner off with this dish for lunch for two.

SPANISH OMELET

- Filling:
- 1 tablespoon onion flakes
 - 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
 - 1 red pepper, sliced thin
 - 1 green pepper, sliced thin
 - 2 tomatoes, peeled and cut in eights
 - 1/2 Mushrooms, sliced
 - 1/2 teaspoon tobacco sauce
 - dash of salt and freshly ground pepper
 - 2 tablespoons parsley, chopped fine

- Omelet:
- 4 eggs
 - 1 tablespoon water
 - 1/2 teaspoon imitation butter flavored salt

Filling: Saute onion flakes in two tablespoons water. Add garlic powder, peppers, tomatoes, mushrooms, tabasco sauce, salt and pepper. Cook together about five minutes. Add parsley just before filling omelet.

Omelet: Combine eggs, water, imitation butter salt and beat thoroughly with a fork until light and foamy. Place a sprayed pan over moderate heat. When pan is hot, pour in egg mixture. When omelet is cooked on the bottom and ready to be folded, pour hot filling in center of omelet. Fold over and serve on a hot plate.

I'll top that off with some dessert recipes if you'll send me a self-addressed business size stamped envelope with "Sweet Rewards" written on the flap. My address is The Diet Workshop, 2533 Tara-val St., San Francisco 94116.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks. Gastronomer Brillat-Savarin's words can bear repeating: "In the hands of an able cook fish can become an inexhaustible source of perpetual delight." Inexhaustible, because there are so many varieties of fish to work with, and an endless mix-and-match combinations of spices that will make them distinctive.

To fish an example from the Gulf of Mexico: red snapper. A fine fish to begin with, but season it with onion flakes, instant minced garlic, cinnamon, red pepper, thyme and cloves and you have Fish Veracruz, a perpetual delight from south of the border.

Many of the classic fish dishes around the world owe their appeal to a deft hand with seasonings. French fish dumpling, quenelles, feature such aromatics as shallots, onion, garlic, parsley, tarragon and both red and white pepper. Scandinavian fish pudding carries a hint of cardamom and red pepper. English soured mackerel gets some of its kick from thyme, bay leaves and pepper, while that omnibus of seafood dishes, bouillabaisse, is golden with saffron and scented with thyme, bay leaf, peppercorns and garlic.

- FISH VERACRUZ
- 1/4 cup onion flakes
 - 1/2 teaspoon instant minced garlic
 - 1/4 cup water
 - 6 to 7 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
 - 1 can (28 oz.) peeled whole tomatoes, crushed
 - 1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste

- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 2 teaspoon sugar
- 1/4 teaspoons salt, divided
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground red pepper or 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 1/4 pounds red snapper fillets or other firm-fleshed fish fillets
- 1/3 cup flour

Rehydrate 1/4 cup onion flakes and 1/4 teaspoon garlic in 1/4 cup water for 10 minutes. In a large skillet heat two tablespoons of the oil until hot. Add onion and garlic mixture; saute one to two minutes. Add one can crushed tomatoes, one can tomato paste, one tablespoon lemon juice, two tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon of the salt, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon red or black pepper, 1/4 teaspoon thyme, and 1/2 teaspoon cloves; mix well.

Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered for 15 minutes stirring often. Cut 1 1/4 pounds of fish into serving-sized portions. Combine 1/3 cup flour and remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt. Coat fish with flour mixture.

In a large skillet heat three tablespoons oil until hot. Saute three or four pieces of the fish at a time until browned on both sides, four to six minutes, adding more oil if needed. Arrange on a serving plate. Top with hot sauce.

Serve with boiled potatoes and toast points, garnished with sliced stuffed olives, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 portions.

Civil Service panel vacancy

Recruitment is underway for the First District seat on the San Mateo County Civil Service Commission.

The seat was that of late Commissioner Dan Casentini of San Bruno, who died of a heart attack recently. Casentini had served on the commission since January 1976.

The commission advises the Board of Supervisors on a variety of personnel-related matters, including hearing appeals on dismissals, demotions, and suspension of employees, and reviewing eligible lists and job classifications.

The commission meets the first Friday morning of each month at 10 a.m. in the County Government center in Redwood City. It is a paying job, at $50 per meeting.

Applicants are required to reside in the North County area (Brisbane, Colma, San Bruno, South San Francisco, Daly City east of Mission-Hillside and Cabrillo Freeway).

Applications are available in the office of the Board of Supervisors, Hall of Justice, Redwood City, or by calling 364-5600, ext. 4567. The deadline is April 6.

State takes big bite out of mosquito abatement district

By JANET PARKER

For most of us, it's simply an annoyance at the family barbecue, an unwanted pest that leaves a nasty calling card.

But the vector control specialists warn that the "army in the war against that pest, the mosquito, is dwindling and that the fading suburban troops could place areas in vulnerable positions.

The tiny, biting insects are potential time bombs of encephalitis, malaria and other diseases.

"Once an epidemic hits, it's extremely costly to try to stop it," said Charles Hansen, manager of the San Mateo County Mosquito Abatement District.

"We're interested in the statewide picture because disease doesn't recognize boundaries," Hansen observed.

The present potential danger, locally and in other counties throughout the state, is a side effect of the recent reduction from 47 staff members in the California Department of Health Services Vector Control Section to 27 staff members.

What that means, Hansen said, is a sharp cutback in surveillance for mosquito-borne encephalitis.

The state, he said, will no longer be able to test mosquitoes for the disease that strikes the brain and has no known cure. Identifying encephalitis in the laboratory, Hansen said, is a very specialized capability that cannot be done locally.

Consequently, he said, it's expected that a full-scale effort to control the disease would only begin through emergency funding if an outbreak were to occur.

Meantime, while runoff from winter rains create mosquito-breeding ponds and suburban families take to the outdoors for spring and summer activities, the 10 local district inspectors won't be so keenly in tune with the mosquito populations, Hansen said.

The San Mateo district lost three inspectors of its own last year to resignations. They were not replaced.

"We're doing everything we can to keep the mosquito population down but it's going to be difficult," Hansen contended.

Dr. William Reeves, of the University of California at Berkeley, warned the California Mosquito Control and Vector Association at a Burlingame gathering recently that if an epidemic of encephalitis were to suddenly occur, it would cost the state more than $10 million in emergency funds to fight back.

Reeves, an entomologist specializing in vector control for more than 40 years, said lost resources in preventing disease in the first place cannot be replaced on short notice, as the public would expect in the initial stages of an epidemic.

Each case of encephalitis, Reeves said, costs taxpayers about $250,000, and much more if brain damage forces lifetime institutionalization, as it has in past epidemics.

As for malaria, 225 diagnosed cases were reported in California in 1978 — 30 percent of the total United States cases. Although none of those were in San Mateo County, Hansen explained, mosquito problems extend statewide as an infected person or animal or the carrier mosquito itself crosses geographical boundaries.

Despite an unusually wet winter and spring in 1978, constant vector control programs managed to stem off a potential resurgence in mosquito-borne diseases, Reeves said.

"Epidemic control classically is expensive, too late and relatively ineffective once an epidemic is developed," the expert continued.

Neither the state nor federal governments are equipped to provide vector control, including mosquitoes, for long periods except under emergency epidemic conditions, Reeves said.

The San Mateo County district, Hansen noted, suffered a 37 percent revenue loss last year — from $875,000 to $555,000 — under Proposition 13, and received no state surplus funds.

Hansen said mosquitoes are beginning to appear in great numbers. While some, like culex tarsalis, pose a threat of encephalitis, others, like the common house mosquito that swarms into a lighted living room at night, are mere pests.

In the past, the manager added, the district has attempted to respond within 24 hours to citizens' calls about pest mosquitoes (more than 2,000 calls were received last year). Hansen doubts that present levels of inspecting services will allow that kind of service to continue in all cases.

Local inspectors are now focusing on the salt-marsh areas of the county. But, as summer months near, the focus will shift to catch basins, creeks, yards and ornamental ponds where mosquitoes tend to proliferate, Hansen said.

The tree-hole mosquito, primarily considered a pest but also a carrier of heartworm, which threatens the lives of dogs, is being found in wooded areas like Portola Valley and Woodside.

The anopheles mosquitoes, the malaria carriers, also are present in San Mateo County.

Admittedly, he said, San Mateo County has not suffered as badly as some other districts in the state in mosquito control. The Sutter-Yuba district last year reported 44 cases of malaria.

But Hansen said he believes high standards of mosquito control in California have kept such outbreaks from turning into regional or statewide epidemics.

"That's why we like to toot the horn on how effective preventive control has been."

MOSQUITO STALKING IN THE COUNTY
Charles Hansen, manager, demonstrates the technique.

Hot Chase Winds Through North

A hot chase that reached speeds of up to 90 miles per hour on El Camino Real last Tuesday landed a Daly City man in jail on suspicion of burglary and being under the influence of narcotics, according to South San Francisco police.

The episode began when Officer Gary Thornton responded to a burglar alarm call at a home on Arroyo Drive, where he reported seeing a car back out of the driveway with a television set in the back seat.

Thornton said he yelled at the driver to stop, but the car sped away.

Thornton broadcast a description of the driver and license number of the car on his portable police radio and a few minutes later the car was spotted by Officer Bob Collins, who was patrolling northbound on El Camino at Arroyo, police said.

Collins pursued the car, reporting the 90 mph speed on the S-curve around Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco. Joined by other South San Francisco units and patrol cars in Colma and Broadmoor and with other city police units ready to assist, the vehicle entered an apartment house carport at 591 Villa St. in Broadmoor, officers said.

The man jumped from the car as it still was rolling to a stop and ran into his girlfriend's apartment, police said.

The woman came out, and after some conversation, talked the boyfriend into surrendering about 15 minutes after his arrival.

Booked at the Daly City jail was Phillip C. Chervellera, 28, 282 1st Ave., Daly City. The television set was the only thing taken in the burglary, police said.

Animal Forum: Sending pets by air is safe

By D. R. BARNETT, DVM.

Question: We are moving to the East Coast in about three months and want to take our animals with us. Our furniture is being shipped by van and will be there when we arrive. I am concerned about sending our dog and two cats by air during the winter months because someone told us that the temperature in the plane and at the terminals might be around freezing. Our California pets could never stand that. How do animals weather these kind of trips?

Answer: I'm sure the airlines handle them very well, otherwise the complaints and lawsuits would be overwhelming. The humane organizations are ever watchful for inhuman practices and would alert the public if they were to occur. You should talk to an airline representative and explain your concerns and evaluate the answers. Also, there are some organizations which specialize in shipping animals and they could advise you. Finally, there is the possibility of taking the animals on board the plane if they are small and in hand carriers.

Question: Our dog runs and runs. He's never still for a minute and we have problems keeping him in the house because he is so active. He eats well, but his ribs show. He always has a plate of food available, but that doesn't keep weight on him. He's three years old. Will he stay hyped up like this all his life? Will he slow down when he gets older? Does he need pills?

K. J.

Answer: Some animals, as some humans, are hyperactive and remain this way most of their lives. Usually these individuals are very healthy and remain trim due to activity. If he has not started to slow down by three years of age he probably will continue to be quite active. If your veterinarian indicates that he is healthy, he doesn't need any pills. Neutering often calms these hyperactive individuals down somewhat and you might consider having this surgery performed. It might make a better pet of him and you will be helping to solve the pet overpopulation problem.

Question: My dog is part German and Rhodesian Ridgeback. Her name is Chase. She is seven months old and I just started serious training with her after reading some books. I did everything it said, but she won't cooperate. She chokes when I try to teach her to heel. I need to teach her heel because she walks me instead of my walking her.

I also have another dog, a Schipperke. I was wondering if she is distracting Chase because they are very close. Maybe I'm too young because I'm only 13. Do you have any idea what's wrong?

J. R.

Answer: I don't think you are too young, in fact you are probably the ideal age to train your dog. My suggestion would be to take her to an obedience training class taught by a professional dog trainer. (Ask your veterinarian to recommend one). Obedience training is very beneficial to any dog, no matter the age, and usually helpful to the owner also. It is very encouraging to hear from young people, like yourself, who are interested in training a dog so it can fit into society. With increasing pressure from non-dog owners concerning the problems caused by dogs, i.e. dog packs attacking children and livestock, dogs defecating on yards and sidewalks, barking dogs, etc., it makes it even more important that each of us has control of our dogs and try to make good citizens of them. Obedience training will do this for your dog. A well-trained dog that is under control is a pleasure, one without training can be, and often is, a disaster.

INFLATION FIGHTING ideas

"Recycling in the Kitchen"

Leftover meat and vegetables can make excellent additions to homemade soups and stews. The U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs suggests that you keep a supply of plastic containers on hand for storing leftovers. Freeze them for use at a later time in preparing imaginative, economical meals. Safeway stocks a wide variety of convenient plastic bags and containers in many sizes and shapes.

Leftovers needn't be boring the second time around. An economy-minded cook regards leftovers as a challenge to creativity. Even a leftover hot dog, sliced up, can add interest and flavor to scrambled eggs or soup.

How to select an electronic game

By RICHARD C. MOON

More and more electronic games of the non-video type are being put on the market. Consumers are finding themselves lost in a maze of nifty beeps, buzzers and flashing lights, with no real criteria with which to judge the games' merits or faults.

I recently came across a check list titled "How to Buy an Electronic Game" which might be helpful to anyone contemplating a purchase of one of these new games. The ideas can be applied evenly to all of the electronic games we find in the stores. Here are a few of the hints on the list.

Some games offer more than just one game with these "multi-game" games. You obviously get more for your money. Look for these.

Comparison shop. Prices can vary widely.

Check the information on the package. Look for a description of play and the age group for which the game is intended. Some games are "solitaire" and some can be played by a number of people.

If you can, test the game in the store. Many stores have "try me" displays so you can see if you really will enjoy the game before buying.

Here is an important one to me: Can the game be played without all those fancy electronics? Some of these games are no more than variations of games that can be played with pencil and paper. Look for a game that requires the computer to perform a function vital to the game.

Check construction. The better games are put together with high-impact plastic with few moving parts exposed. They can withstand frequent handling.

Most of these games require batteries (not included). Check to see if it can be used with an adapter, which can save you money in the long run. Some games also have "battery-saving" features which cut down the current on the display screen when the game is on for a long period of time.

Read the warranty. Make certain the game is guaranteed for a reasonable length of time. If there is no return policy, you may have problems later.

When you get the game home, make sure everyone knows how to use it and take care of it properly.

Remember to turn the game off when not in use. Replace dead batteries as soon as possible, or remove them. Corroded batteries may damage circuitry.

If you have problems with the working of the game, write the manufacturer. All reputable companies have quality control departments. They are in the business of selling fun and gladly will handle any genuine complaint.

This list is by no means complete and you probably can add items of your own.

Mixon wins one-on-one title

By MARK GEYER

One-on-one. To most young cagers, a way of survival on the schoolyard courts.

To former Serramonte High senior Ricky Nixon, it's merely another way to show that he plays basketball as well as anybody in San Mateo County.

Mixon proved it Friday night at the San Mateo County One-On-One Tournament on the Carmel High hardwoods, where he walked away with the first-place trophy.

It was an interesting win for Nixon, who had missed out on a lot of postseason competition and awards when he was declared ineligible late in the North Peninsula League season.

Out of the 32-player field from 18 county high schools, Nixon and Crestmoor forward Todd Boulett emerged as the finalists.

Both players were tired, and it showed in the title bout. Instead of moving a lot and driving to the hoop, which both Nixon and Boulett had done in their previous four matches, they turned the final into a shooting contest.

Mixon, bound next year for Skyline College, reached into his bag of tricks and came up with a hot hand as he dusted Boulett 20-14.

"I got here late and got off to sort of a slow start," admitted Nixon. "But after a while my shooting picked up, and I knew that I could go pretty far."

Mixon, who led the NPL in scoring as a sophomore and a junior, and is the sixth highest scorer in Central Coast Section history, almost lost in the second round to tough Tony Limutau of Westmoor.

Limutau drove successfully, and was hitting from the perimeter as he built up a six-point lead — usually fatal in a game to 20. But Nixon took advantage of the must-win-by-two rule and beat the Ram guard 23-20.

"Limutau scared me because I couldn't stop him," said Nixon. "But his defense was weak at the end, and I caught him."

Mixon said his toughest opponent defensively was Serra's Jim Bruno, who lost the semi-final bout but took the consolation game for a third place trophy.

The biggest surprise of the tournament was a pleasant one for the nice-sized crowd on hand. San Mateo sophomore Paul Pickett upset All-Mid-Peninsula League first-teamer Charlie Brown of Hillsdale in the opening round and advanced all the way to the final four.

Pickett dazzled the fans with near-flawless shooting and lightning-quick moves along the baseline as he snuffed Menlo-Atherton's Greg Bradford in the second round and Westmoor's Sheldon Scott in the quarterfinals.

Pickett ran into trouble, however, when he met up with Boulett. The slick San Mateo guard couldn't shake Boulett's hounding defense, nor could he stop Boulett from backing in or driving baseline. As a result, the wiry Falcon frontliner moved on to the final.

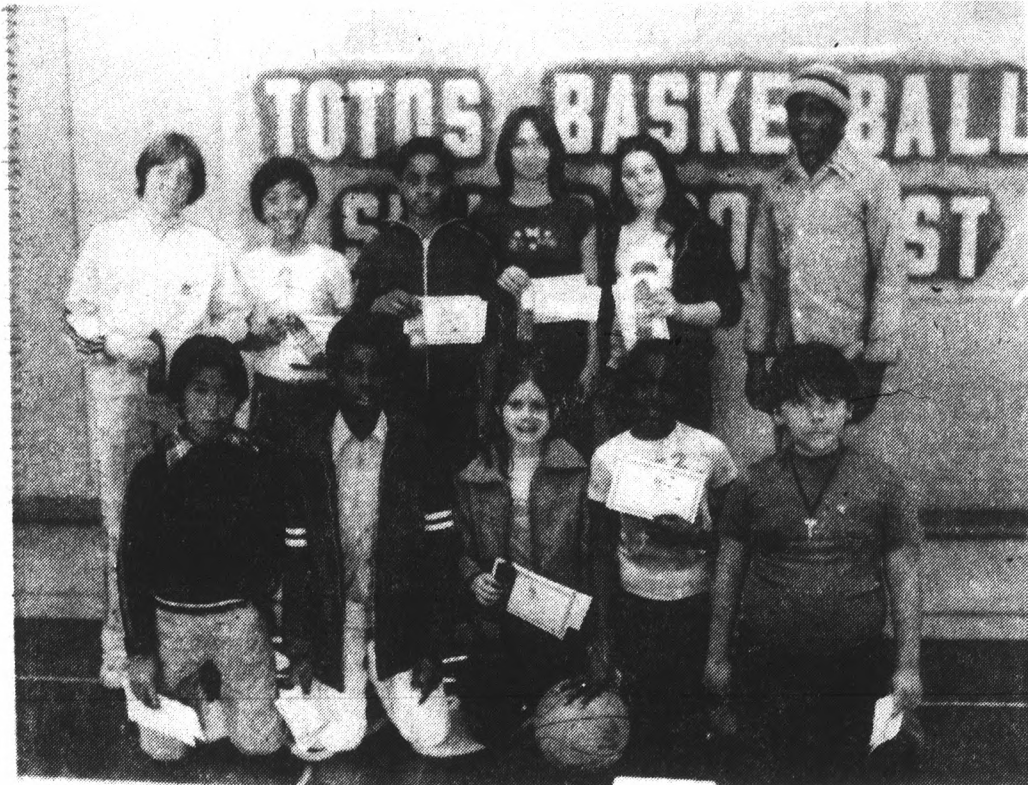

"I enjoy playing team ball over one-on-one," said Boulett. "So I'm surprised I did so well. I just wish I could have played Nixon earlier, because I could have beat him."

In other good match-ups, Burlingame's Victor Reed downed Mills' Dave Delbon, the MPL's Co-Player of the Year. With the win, Reed advanced to a quarterfinal game against Nixon. Unfortunately for Victor, Nixon had just come off the comeback win over Limutau and was virtually unstoppable.

Carmel junior Bruce Nash made it to a third round game with Boulett by way of an impressive 20-16 win over Hillsdale's Don Stremme. But Boulett, coming off a very physical win over Serra's Preston Neumayr, manhandled Nash 20-13.

The tournament, sponsored for the first time by Carmel, was held in the past at Woodside. Last year marked the first time in eight years that the tourney was dropped. But thanks to the Carmel girls' softball team, who sponsored and helped organize the County-wide event, it was restored.

THOSE WITH THE SKILLS

El Camino blanked; Westmoor is ripped

By PAUL SALVONI

It wasn't a bird, it wasn't a plane and it wasn't — well, for a moment, maybe Burlingame High's Mike Garcia WAS Superman.

A brilliant defensive play by Garcia, coupled with the superb clutch relief pitching of right-hander Ralph Akchurin, sparked Burlingame's baseball team to a 1-0 victory over visiting El Camino at Washington Park Friday, dropping Camino (4-1) from the ranks of the undefeated.

In other non-league prep baseball action Friday, Mills edged visiting Sequoia 2-1 in an eight-inning thriller. San Mateo lost a 1-0 decision to visiting Palo Alto, Hillsdale edged San Carlos 1-0 at Burton Park (giving Serra the championship of the San Carlos Boosters Tournament), Crestmoor got bombed 12-1 by Sacred Heart at San Francisco's Funston Park, Westmoor ripped Rioridan 14-7 at Marchbanks Field, Carmel topped visiting Oceana 6-5, Serra lost a 13-7 slugfest to host Awallt in Sunnyvale, Carmel nipped visiting Oceana 6-5 and Aragon decked host Lowell 10-4.

With Burlingame leading 1-0, El Camino's Jeff Pettigrew opened the top of the sixth by cracking a rocket to right-center field. The 5-10 Garcia took off from his position in right, had a long run for the ball and made a diving catch. That became very significant when the Colts then proceeded to load the bases on a single, an error and a walk.

Akchurin — who had struck out the side in the fifth — got out of the jam by striking out Camino's number five and number six hitters. Akchurin had escaped a similar dilemma in the third, when the Colts had runners on first and second with one out; Akchurin then fanned Camino's No. 2 and No. 3 batters.

Burlingame scored the game's only run in the bottom of the first. With one out, Kevin Cullen beat out a single to the left side of the infield, then stole second. Camino's Mark Evans recorded a strikeout for out number two, but Cullen then tried to steal third; the throw from Camino's catcher was off-target and got away into left field, and Cullen scampered across.

"Johnson (Burlingame starter Steve Johnson) and Akchurin pitched very well," said Panther Coach Terry Christman, whose hurlers combined for 11 strikeouts while yielding only two walks. "And I don't know how Garcia made that catch — that was a great play."

The Mills-Sequoia contest featured a brilliant pitching duel between right-handers John Mangiante and Mike Schopp. Mangiante, making his first start of the season, threw 86 pitches — 60 of them strikes — while striking out three batters and walking one. Schopp fanned seven hitters and walked one.

Mangiante had a perfect game going after six innings. With one away in the top of the seventh, however, Sequoia's Ted Mitchell ruined things with a single deep into the hole between shortstop and third base. Sequoia's next hitter followed with a bloop single to left, but Mangiante retired the Cherokee's next batter to get out of the jam.

Sequoia picked up a run to break the ice in the top of the eighth, but then Mills bounced back against Schopp in the frame's bottom half.

Sophomore Flo Gonzalez reached base on an infield error. John Verducci, another promising soph, then tried a sacrifice bunt; when Sequoia fielded the ball and threw it into center in trying to nail Gonzalez at second, Gonzalez sped to third and Verducci was safe at first.

FORCE OUT

Burlingame High's Matt Hesselgren (19) is heading for home in Tuesday's game against El Camino, but Camino catcher Merlin Nelson already has the ball. Nelson is waiting for a collision, but it wasn't necessary. The bases were loaded (bottom of the sixth inning) and Hesselgren was forced out. Burlingame upset the Colts 1-0, knocking the prep power from the ranks of the unbeaten. (See story on Page 10).

Bittersweet end for Terra Nova

By SIMI LEE

HAYWARD — A brilliant season for Terra Nova High's girls' basketball team ended on a bittersweet note Thursday when the Tigers dropped a 50-46 decision to unbeaten Washington of San Francisco in the opening round of the Tournament of Champions at Chabot College.

Terra Nova had won 22 straight games and a Central Coast Section title going into the game; the Tigers finished 28-3.

From the opening tip-off to the final buzzer nothing went smoothly.

The Tigers committed 32 turnovers. Top scorer Becky Myers got into foul trouble, didn't take a shot in the second half and fouled out in the fourth quarter.

And the close calls didn't go Terra Nova's way.

"We may have peaked too early," sighed 5-11 senior forward Patty Juergens, who did enjoy a good afternoon netting 15 points while hauling in five rebounds. "It wasn't that we didn't want to play, but something was missing today. Our team's goal had been to play in the CCS (Central Coast Sectionals)."

Daly City's Ken Dito still best 'unknown'

When I first started writing about Ken Dito several years ago I billed him as the best unknown sportscaster in the Bay Area. That's when he was host of a weekly TV sports talk show for San Francisco cable channel 6 called "Spotlight on Sports."

But all that is changed now, or at least should be as soon as KNBR's huge sports audience gets a chance to evaluate Dito. He'll be known then. If you don't already know it, the Daly City guy has made good as host of the KNBR Sportsphone 68 talk show replacing Hank Greenwald during baseball season while Greenwald is on assignment as second banana to Lindsey Nelson on the Giants' play-by-play broadcast team. Dito will have the show for eight months of the year, and will be on other assignments for KNBR.

Dito is eminently qualified to be host on such a show during baseball season because, though he's qualified to speak knowledgeably on virtually all sports (he's coached basketball and soccer and broadcast Golden Gloves tournaments), he'll bring a dimension to baseball talk to which local fans are unaccustomed. Unlike almost any other sportscaster in the area, Dito truly knows baseball. And above all, he loves it. He's coached it, was an All-City catcher at St. Ignatius in San Francisco, a starting catcher for the University of California at Berkeley, and played at the highest levels of semi-pro ball. And he studies the game continually. He does his homework.

It's been a long and somewhat miraculous haul for Dito. Six years ago he decided he wanted to become a sportscaster, even though he had never had any training in that area. He never took a radio/TV course at Cal, or attended a broadcasting school.

"I just felt," says Dito, "that I could do as well as most of the sportscasters to whom I had been exposed."

And so he started the incredible journey that led to KNBR. He says now that if he had stopped to think about the odds against succeeding in such a competitive business without any formal training or knowing anybody in the industry who could break him in, he might have been more awed by the odds.

Dito's first job was at KTIM in San Rafael as a disc jockey; a job he acquired only after hustling a couple of demo tapes around every radio station in the Bay Area for a year of weekends.

Dito worked as KTIM's star weekend disc jockey for 2½ years, and in June of 1975 applied for an on-camera job at channel 6, was auditioned and hired to assist long-time Bay Area play-by-play man Bud Foster, who was the original host of Spotlight on Sports. When Foster left a couple of months later, Dito found himself in charge.

There followed a long list of in-depth studio interviews with sports celebrities, many nights and weekends of mini-camera remote work covering events and doing more interviews, play-by-play coverage of USF games, and in between, flirtations with other jobs, including several weekends with Channel 2.

Finally, as he was still doing "Spotlight on Sports," Dito hooked on with KGO as a replacement sportscaster and Sportstalk host (when Monte Stickles and Greg Jordan were on vacation, sick, or on special assignments), and did a good enough job to get his own talk show after Raider games, which he did for two seasons.

Somewhere along the line KNBR General Manager Bill Bryer heard Dito during his replacement gigs for Jordan, was impressed, and filed Ken Dito in the back of his memory for future reference.

When KNBR acquired the rights to Giants broadcasts and it was determined that Sports Director Greenwald would join the play-by-play team, Dito needed a replacement for Greenwald on the popular Sportsphone 68 show. His first inclination was to go with different guest hosts throughout the season, perhaps athlete-personalities. But Greenwald, who had long admired Dito's work, suggested to Dito that Ken might be the answer, and Dito, his memory of Dito, refreshed, agreed.

It was that simple. Or was it? Not to Dito, the standard "overnight sensation" who had sweated out six years of being a non-entity except to the hard-core of followers who felt that he was really the only sportscaster in town who genuinely knew and understood the total local sports scene.

Meanwhile, Dito reports that he'll do his best to keep Sportsphone 68 the same lively, informative show it has been with Greenwald. With one exception.

"No trivia," says Dito. "I hate it. It slows down the program. Usually the only people interested in it are the people who ask the questions, and they generally know the answers, anyway. Let's face it. Most trivia is boring. It doesn't mean you understand the sport. Only that you might have an encyclopedic memory. Maybe it's fun among friends sitting around a bar talking about things they're all interested in. But to take up valuable air time with it, no, I can't see it."

Ironically, Dito may be his own best trivia question. What former Best Unknown Sportscaster in the Bay Area beat incredible odds to become the Best Known Sportscaster...?

A random thought occurs about how managers can make pitchers look good or bad by the way they handle them: make them seem to have improved or retrogressed with apparently slight adjustments in schedules, etc.

Example: A relief pitcher, over a period of years, has demonstrated that he can be effective for two innings, but is living on borrowed time after that. A manager pitches him for more than two innings in a certain game, for whatever reasons; probably because his staff has worn thin and he's trying to squeeze the last drop out of what he has left. So the guy starts getting bombed and the game is lost anyway, and the manager keeps him in there, lets him take his lumps for the good of the total pitching staff.

Le Pacini

Maybe the pitcher went six up, six down in the first two innings he pitched and did his normal job. But in his third inning he gave up five runs. This happens a few times over the course of the season and his ERA will balloon disproportionately. He's had a "bad" season.

The next season the manager has either found another 'fall guy,' recognizes the two-inning pitcher's strengths and weaknesses, or simply has a deeper staff, so that nobody has to take lumps. The two-inning pitcher never goes more than two, does his usual effective job in his short stints, and finishes with a good record. The press says he's improved. Not true. It's the manager who's improved.

Tag End: San Antonio, the all-around best shooting team in the NBA, has a remarkable seven players shooting above the 80 percent mark in free throws. If the Warriors had just two of those guys, they'd be in the playoffs this year.
